Household Hazardous Waste, Electronic Waste and Universal Waste

Household hazardous waste is any item to be disposed that is labeled toxic, poisonous, corrosive, flammable, combustible or an irritant. In addition, there are items that are detrimental to the environment or pose health risks if not properly disposed. Electronic Waste (E-Waste) refers to consumer electronic equipment that is no longer wanted. E-waste can include computers, printers, televisions, VCRs, cell phones, fax machines, stereos, and electronic games. Universal wastes are hazardous wastes that are widely produced by households and many different types of businesses. Universal wastes include televisions, computers and other electronic devices as well as batteries, fluorescent lamps, mercury thermostats, and other mercury containing equipment, among others. Hazardous waste, universal waste and e-waste are NOT to be thrown in the trash; the simplest way to properly dispose of these items is by taking them to a Household Hazardous Waste (HHW) Roundup. HHW Roundups are sponsored by the Los Angeles County Department of Public Works. Click here for updated information on upcoming HHW events!
