

Valid monthly permits must be properly displayed. Failing to display a valid monthly permit may result in a citation, and forgetting to display the permit is not a valid reason to appeal a citation. In addition, a permit that has expired due to the expiration of a credit card that a patron did not update on the Park Covina website is also not a valid reason for the appeal of a citation. Please check your email spam filter to ensure that you receive emails from the parking permit contractor notifying you of the pending expiration of your credit card.

To pay a parking citation, please visit <https://www.dspayments.com/Covina> or call toll free (877) 236-2958.

To appeal a citation, please pick up a citation appeal form from the Records Bureau of the Covina Police Department, open from 7am to 9pm daily (626) 384-5656. Citation appeals must be submitted within twenty-one (21) days of the receipt of the citation.

To access the Covina Municipal Code to research a citation appeal, please visit www.codepublishing.com/ca/covina. Parking citations can be found in section 10.32.

To access the California Vehicle Code to research a citation appeal, please visit www.dmv.ca.gov/pubs/vctop/vc/vctoc.htm

Parking laws are strictly enforced throughout the city. The various parking lot and structures in the downtown area are part of these enforcement efforts. Each parking lot or parking structure has specific parking time limits. Information about each parking lot's time limits is posted within each parking lot and visitors to the area should be aware of this information before parking. Payment stations, if required, are adjacent to each parking area for your use.

Should you receive a parking citation, payment can be made on-line, over the phone, or in person at the police station lobby.

If you wish to pay on-line using your Debit Card or Visa credit card, select "Pay with Credit Card"
